

1 Don Rimx Murals

Grant Ave 22-24th Street, East side
Perfil Ancestral (Ancestral Profile)

Inspired by the Indigenous tribe's native to the region, Perfil Ancestral serves as a tribute to the ancestral roots and cultural history that existed long before the modern development of the American West.

2 Mano Trabajadora (The Working Hand)

Inspired by the immigrant communities who helped build the railroads that shaped Ogden's history, Mano Trabajadora honors the labor, sacrifice, and cultural diversity that fueled the growth of the American West.

3 La Unión (The Union)

Inspired by the railroad that shaped Ogden into a historic crossroads of the American West, La Unión pays tribute to the moment connection transformed the region. Through bold color and geometric composition, Don Rimx captures the spirit of progress and the lasting impact the railroad left on the city's identity.

4 Mrs. Rodeo

Inspired by the cowboys and cowgirls who helped shape the spirit of the American West, Mrs. Rodeo celebrates the deep connection between rider, horse, and land.

5 Joe McQueen

Joe McQueen honors one of Ogden's most beloved figures, a jazz saxophonist whose connection to the city began by accident and became a lifelong part of its cultural identity.

6 Kelly Donovan: Ogden Pioneer Days Rodeo 315 East 24th Street

7 Rich Ramos: Wasatch Roasting, Origin Alley
2434 Grant Ave. - Ramos is highly engaged in the Ogden arts scene. Whether he is creating large-scale works in both black-and-grey and color or painting live at local street events, he actively fosters creativity and advocates for social connection within his community.

8 Cole Eisenhower: You Belong 2424 Kiesel Ave, South side of parking structure -

The vision behind You Belong is rooted in the idea that every person carries a different perspective shaped by their own experiences, upbringing, and identity. Through layered portraiture, overlapping forms, and interconnected compositions, the mural reflects the complexity of human connection and the importance of understanding one another beyond surface-level differences.

9 Rachel Pohl: The Platforms

25th Street and Adams Ave - The mural was inspired by Ogden's architecture and Rachel's time in the community - a place I grew to love. You'll see elements pulled directly from Ogden such as the Wasatch mountains, the Ogden Canyons Waterfall, and the Ibis - inspiration from the Egyptian Theater - the historic train and the colorful flair of the Creative District.

10 Emily Munk: Grow Where You Are 25th Street and Adams Ave., southside

11 Jessica Marine: Bees 25th Street and Adams Ave., southside

12 Lindsay Huss: Electric West
25th Street and Adams Ave., southside - "I am passionate about uplifting the voices of ones that need to be amplified and exploring the ideas that connect us all at the core of our humanity."

13 Jane Kim: Monarch in Moda
455 East 25th Street, and Weber State University, Kimball Arts Building - The Migrating Mural® is a series of murals that highlight various animals along migration corridors they share with humans. The Monarch Migrating Mural focuses on the iconic and threatened monarch butterfly. Tracing the path of the monarch across North America, The Migrating Mural® drives support for habitat conservation and restoration while beautifying public spaces with monumental art.

14 Eric J. Garcia: Sower, Healer, Protector
Ogden Contemporary Art, 490 25th Street - The design was inspired by learning and investigating the region while I was there for the residency. I had learned about how the Great Salt Lake is drying up. I learned and saw for myself all the pollution from commuters, factories, and the military base that gets trapped in the Salt Lake basin. Learning about all these ecological threats is why I decided to make the mural about the local environment and specifically the detriment to it.

15 Rich Ramos: Get Out and Live
253 25th Street on Roosters Brewing - Ramos made a major mark on Ogden's cityscape when he was commissioned to paint the prominent "Get Out and Live!" mural in downtown Ogden to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Ogden Marathon. His style is heavily inspired by his passion for skateboarding and snowboarding, capturing raw movement, bold colors, and an undeniable sense of local pride.
